

“Digital marketing offers incredible potential, but everyone has to learn new skills and acquire new knowledge. Companies across Europe asked us to create these Academies to accelerate their knowledge and understanding. Training has never been more critical to personal and business success.”

Danny Meadows-Klue, Founder & CEO, The Digital Training Academy & Digital Strategy Consulting

Autumn Term 2007

Building stronger digital teams Autumn term at the Digital Training Academy

Delivering online marketing Academies across Europe

How can our training help boost your team? We train agencies, consumer brands and media owners in the skills and strategy for getting digital marketing and publishing right. You have 40 one day Academies to choose from that will instantly boost your team's results. Training is practical and focused, covering everything from 'how to build a successful search campaign', to getting the most from email marketing, to helping media owners sell online advertising. Our directors have taught online marketing since 1996 and run training in fifteen countries. How can we help you get more from online?

The knowledge transfer business

Autumn term 2007: how can we boost your team?

Each Academy is designed to improve your business and boost your team

Our Digital Training Academies start with a detailed analysis of your needs, and the creation of an Academy specifically for your business. Before you enter the classroom we will be sending you research, giving you exercises, and building your knowledge. In your Academy we focus on the 'how to', helping you build your plans and turn your knowledge into results. Your tutor is online after the Academy in a special Digital Classroom just for you. And all Academy participants join our graduate programme, getting regular research to keep their knowledge fresh. We can even deliver strategy reports back to you as the commissioning manager.
